The University of Hohenheim invites early-career researchers who completed their PhD within the last four years to join the Hohenheim NextGen Scientists Symposium in Stuttgart. The event offers dedicated sessions covering key research areas at Hohenheim, where participants can present and discuss their research and explore future collaborations.

Each session is chaired by leading experts in the respective areas:

- » Microbiome Research in Livestock and Agri-Food Systems
chaired by Amélia Camarinha Silva & Jana Seifert
- » Diversity and Resilience Across Scales in Natural and Agro-Ecosystems chaired by Karl Schmid & Andreas Schweiger
- » Data-Driven Transformation of Sustainable Agri-Food Systems
chaired by Thomas Dimpfl & Christine Wieck
- » Food, Nutrition & Health
chaired by Mario Jekle & Barbara Lieder

The symposium also includes:

- Introduction and tours of Hohenheim's unique research infrastructure
- Information on support services for early-career researchers
- Personalized advice on funding opportunities
